PRESIDENT CLOSETED WITH MEMBERS OF HIS CABINET

Minister Willis' Statement Has Been Received and Is Being Considered in Secret--J. Scott Harrison's Nomination as Survey of Customs Reported Upon Adversely.

WASHINGTON, January 11.—Minister Willis' report was received by Secretary Gresham today and he is now considering the matter with the president, Secretary Lamont, and Secretary Herbert.

The senate committee on commerce ordered an adverse report on the nomination of J. Scott Harrison, brother of ex-President Harrison, nominated for surveyor of customs in Kansas City.

In the house there was a small attendance today, Breckenridge addressing the committee of the whole on the Wilson bill. Yesterday was devoted to a discussion of the same measure. Dazell of Pennsylvania, made a strong address, devoting his remarks principally to argument to prove the constitutionality of the principle of protection and that the present bill was not a tariff for revenue measure, but in reality provided for bastard protection. He declared that "it is a retreat from the manly, if mistaken, declaration of the Chicago platform. It is a legislative repudiation of the pledges of the party on the faith of which that party says it came into power. There is not a democrat in this house who can not decline to vote for it on the ground that it fails to answer the professions of his party."

John De Witt Warner got the floor late in the afternoon for a speech in favor of the bill.

Mr. Coombs (dem., N. Y.) protested against the claim of the republicans that the present depression was due to the incoming of a democratic administration.

The house then took a recess. Last week when the democratic caucus was in session a tender of recognition was made to the populist party, and last night, for the first time in history, a populist, in the person of Mr. Jerry Simpson, occupied the chair.

Mr. Snodgrass (dem., Tenn.) was the first night speaker in favor of the Wilson bill, but a large part of his remarks were given up to a criticism of the pending measure. He protested against the retention of the sugar bounty. He also criticised the imposition of a further tax of 10 cents a gallon on whisky.

Mr. Mahon (rep., Pa.) attacked the bill. Mr. Mahon took as his text the alleged dependence of the United States upon Great Britain, and he looked forward into the future when this country should be finally and irrevocably emancipated from the commercial domination of England. In defending the reciprocity feature of the McKinley bill he paid a warm eulogy to the memory of Mr. Blaine and stated that no American statesman would ever have a more magnificent or enduring monument to his memory than Mr. Blaine had erected in formulating the reciprocity principle.

Mr. Curtis (rep., Kan.) critically arraigned the wool and live stock schedules of the Wilson bill. At 10:30 the house adjourned.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

Gorman Gives Notice That Government Revenues Must Be Increased.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A resolution offered Tuesday by Senator Peffer as to the inadequacy of the force in the office of the supervising architect of the treasury to prepare drawings for new public buildings was laid before the senate at its session yesterday and was made the subject of a discussion, in the course of which Senator Gorman stated that the trouble was not so much the inadequacy of the force in the architect's office as the inadequacy of means in the treasury to carry on such works. And he notified senators that if they wanted public buildings erected they must be prepared to vote for an additional loan to the treasury or for increased taxation.

Mr. Call (dem., Fla.) advocated the policy of issuing treasury notes liberally and carrying on public works in all parts of the country (including the Nicaraguan canal) so as to give employment to the great army of unemployed.

Mr. Dolph (rep., Ore.) referred to the letter of Gov. Penney to the President representing the destitution said to exist in Oregon, and denied emphatically the statements therein made. After further discussion Mr. Peffer's resolution was agreed to.

The resolution offered by Senator Frye on the 3d inst. as to non-interference of the American government in the Hawaiian affairs was laid before the senate, and Senator Davis addressed the senate.

WORKING FOR HORNBLOWER.

Great Efforts Being Made to Secure His Confirmation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—By common consent the senate will try to dispose of the Hornblower nomination for the Supreme court to-day. In spite of the unfavorable report of the majority of the judiciary committee the administration is said to have hopes that Mr. Hornblower will be confirmed. There has been a great deal of work done in his behalf. The objection which the majority of the judiciary committee makes to Mr. Hornblower is not due to any charges against him, for there was nothing against his reputation or his professional actions. Instead the committee has reached the conclusion that he does not come up to the requirements of the Supreme bench.

Gold Balance Increased.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The net treasury balance yesterday at the close of business stood: Gold, $73,556,816; currency, $18,854,824. This shows a gain in the gold balance of nearly $200,000 since yesterday. The aggregate net balance is about $85,500,000, as $6,424,827 on account of interest on United States bonds paid Jan. 1 last is to be subtracted from the currency as given above.

Whisky Men Gain a Point.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The whisky trust has gained one strong point in getting the democratic majority of the ways and means committee to agree to increase the tax from 90 cents to $1 per gallon. If the house committee can be persuaded to accept the increase the idea is to get the senate to push it up further to $1.20 or perhaps $1.40.

Adverse Report on Holman's Resolution.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The house committee on naval affairs has ordered an adverse report on the resolution introduced by Mr. Holman of Indiana directing the secretary of the navy to suspend until further notice was received from congress all payments of premiums for increased speed in naval vessels.

GOV. WAITE'S MESSAGE READ Colorado's Legislature Meets, but the Body Will Speedily Adjourn.

DENVER, Jan. 11.—The extra session of the legislature, called by Gov. Waite to consider the silver question and enact laws for internal improvements, convened at noon yesterday. The governor's message was read in joint session, after which both branches adjourned until to-day. It is understood the session will adjourn at the end of this week without having passed any bills. The governor has been using all his influence on the populists to have them vote to continue the session for at least thirty days. Many have forsaken him, and it is understood that there is a majority in both houses favorable to immediate adjournment.

Iowa Agriculturists Meet.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 11.—The State Agricultural society held its annual meeting here yesterday with a large attendance. John R. Shaffer, who has been secretary for twenty-two years, found the pressure for a new man too strong and resigned before the matter was brought to a vote. P. L. Fowler of Osceola was elected. John Evans, West Liberty, was elected president. The society is $25,000 in debt and the legislature will be asked for relief.

Afraid to Expose Her Husband.

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 11.—Mrs. S. H. Hart, wife of the defaulting bank President Hart, alias Kahn, of Buckley, says that during the thirteen years she lived with him she was aware of the acts of her husband, but could not free herself. Excepting one visit to her parents, she never saw during all her married life any person who knew her. She is now afraid of her life, fearing if Hart does not do her injury his sons, of whom there are three, will do so.

Try to Steal a Church.

ALMA, Kan., Jan. 11.—Two factions in the United Brethren church here have long been at war. Last night one set put wheels under the church building and started to carry it off. The leaders of the other faction rushed to the home of the district judge, secured an injunction, and, waking up the sheriff, had it served at once. At the time the injunction was served the building was in the middle of the street, and there it stands.

Vaillant Sentenced to Death.

The court was filled with people when Vaillant was brought in closely guarded by policemen. The proceedings were short. Vaillant was sentenced to death.

THOUGHTS.

The right kind of a prayer never stops.

Self-deception is the worst kind of deception.

Love never complains that its burden is too heavy.

Anybody can criticize, but only the wise can commend.

The best preparation for behaving right is to think right.

It doesn't make a lie any whiter to put it on a tombstone.

Nobody on earth works harder for less pay than the stingy man.

People need religion most when they can't have their own way.

Every time a wise man makes a mistake it teaches him something.

It is human nature to hate the people who show us that we are little.

If all our wishes were gratified most of our pleasures would be destroyed.

There is not much growing in grace by those who are not willing to be gracious.

Hold on to the truth, for it will serve well, and do you good throughout eternity.

We see time's furrow on another's brow; how few themselves in that rust mirror see!

BANDITS AT WORK IN EAST AND WEST.

BURLINGTON FLYER ROBBED NEAR ST. JOE.

The Loss May Reach $30,000—Mail Car Also Robbed—No Resistance Made to the Robbers, Who Make Their Escape.

FRESNO, Cal., Jan. 11.—Two men supposed to be Chris Evans and Ed Morrell robbed the depot and six citizens in the town of Tyler last night and engaged in a fight with a constable. In firing upon the bandits the officer seriously wounded two citizens.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 11.—At 8:40 o'clock yesterday evening the Burlington "Eli" passenger train, bound for Chicago, was held up by five unmasked men. The express and mail cars were robbed.

The train was pulling up a steep hill two miles east of this city. Suddenly several torpedoes cracked on the track and immediately afterward a red lantern was swung in front of the engineer.

The engineer quickly brought the train to a stop. Then the engine was boarded by three unmasked men, who covered the engineer and fireman with revolvers.

It was an old-fashioned robbery, but it was successful in every detail. The engineer and fireman were forced to walk back in front of the robbers to the door of the express car. Express Messenger G. B. Wetzel did not suspect there were robbers outside and when he heard the engineer calling he opened the door. The two men were joined by two more, also unmasked. Three of the men stood outside to guard the fireman and engineer, occasionally firing shots to intimidate the passengers.

Two of the bandits entered the express car, covered the messenger with rifles, and ordered him to open the safe. He obeyed as promptly as he did when told to open his car door. The men dumped the contents of the safe into a sack, and, ordering the messenger to follow them, left the car.

It is said the amount obtained in the express car was not large. But as the train is a through one to Chicago it is believed that the robbers had a good haul notwithstanding the denials of the officials.

W. H. Mosely of the Adams Express company says he has received a telegram from the express messenger on the train stating the exact amount secured by the robbers was only $47. It is reported that a registered pouch was carried off by the robbers. Other mail pouches were cut open and rifled, and everything of value in sight was taken. The passengers were not disturbed.

As soon as the train had been robbed it proceeded on its way. The rear brakeman, John Ryan, had been sent back to flag approaching trains. When the robbers released the train it left without calling in the brakeman. He secured a horse and rode back to the city, where he reported at once to the railroad officials. The brakeman says two or three buggies were standing beside the track near the spot where the train was robbed. This leads to the belief that the robbers were from this city, and the police were at once notified and commenced a search. No arrests have been made yet.

The railroad officers assert that the men secured less than $50, but it is believed that the safe in the express car was well filled and everything in it was taken. Another authority places the amount taken at $30,000. The registered pouches were also heavily loaded for Chicago, but the amount they contained can not be learned.

An attempt was made to rob a Burlington train near this city Sept. 25, 1893, and two of the robbers were killed. The railroad officials believe that the robbery last night was committed by some of the same gang who made their escape in the darkness from the first attempted robbery.

Postoffice at Le Mars, Iowa, Robbed.

STOUC CITY, Iowa, Jan. 11.—The postoffice at Le Mars was entered last night, the safe opened, and $458 in cash and $600 or $700 worth of stamps taken, besides numerous registered packages the value of which is not known. The entrance was made by prying the back door open. The safe was only locked with the day lock and was opened by turning the combination. There were no inside doors to the safe, so that as soon as the outside doors were opened the contents were exposed.

ANCHOR IS BARRED.

Schaefer and Ives Play Without Using the Shot.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Ives beat Schaefer last night by a score of 600 to 388, the anchor shot being barred in the game. The much-abused shot has gone out of the balk-line game forever. The referee in view of the change in the rules declared all bets on the tournament off. The barring of the anchor makes the game far more interesting, and the audience appreciated the change. The score last night by innings was:

Ives—0, 56, 2, 31, 131, 0, 0, 1, 79, 10, 6, 31, 36, 36, 42, 0, 7, 32. Total, 600. Average, 83 1/3.

Schaefer and Slosson play to-night.

Candidates Hold Their Own.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 11.—The senatorial situation is about the same as it has been for several days. Each candidate is holding his men firmly, and neither will admit that there have been any desertions. The Gear people say that they are not caring anything about the postponement of the caucus until next Monday. The Lacey people say they are still in the fight and that all talk of their going to pieces is bosh. It was rumored last night that the Gear men are polling the members, with a view of turning down the caucus committee when the Friday night caucus is held. This is denied by leading Gear men.

Break Into the Senate Chamber.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—The republicans assumed the aggressive yesterday, after having been shut out of the senate chamber by the democrats the day of the organization. The republicans broke in the door of the senate gallery, caused the barricades erected by the democrats in front of the main entrance doors to be removed, and took possession of the senate chamber. The republicans hold the senate chamber with twenty-five extra sergeants-at-arms. What to-day will bring forth when the democrats apply for admission is a problem.

Manager Bowden Confident.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 11.—"I will bet $1,000," said Manager Bowden of the Duval Athletic club last evening, "that in a week Gov. Mitchell will lay down his hand and announce to the public over his own signature that he will no longer attempt to prevent Corbett and Mitchell from fighting in Florida." Mr. Bowden refused to give the reasons for his confidence, but said he was ready to back the opinion with his money and that time would show that he was correct.

POVERTY AT IRON MOUNTAIN.

Destitution Growing and Money Fails—The Duluth Unemployed.

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Jan. 11.—There has been a startling increase in the number of applicants for aid in this city and county during the last ten days. The resources of the relief committee are nearly exhausted and there has been a great falling off in donations and a corresponding increase in the number of applicants. The resources of the city and county have been exhausted, and it now seems certain that Gov. Rich will ultimately have to call an extra session of the legislature for the voting of state aid or giving power to bond the city. It is only a question of time unless the mines resume operations, or the city receives from the state, when it will be necessary to dispense with a city government and close the public schools. There is less than $10,000 in sight and there are many bonds to pay. There are now 1,578 people receiving relief and an additional 400 elsewhere in the county.

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 11.—There are at least 2,000 men in Duluth who are out of employment who are anxious to obtain disagreeable work at $1.25 a day. The board of public works yesterday received applications from men who wished to be employed by the city in breaking rock. The council has voted $13,000 to be used in paying men who will be given work and the broken stone will be sold to contractors. Of the 2,000 men who have made application only 200 can be given work at one time.

SAY HAUGHEY HAS GONE INSANE.

May Be Used as Defense for the Indicted Bank President.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 11.—A story was published yesterday that Theodore P. Haughey, president of the Indianapolis National bank, who is indicted on 167 counts for embezzlement, forgery, and bank wrecking, is afflicted with insanity. It is said he no longer recognizes his friends and spends his nights walking the floor. It is believed a plea will be made by his attorneys to show irresponsibility for years past.

Garrigus, nephew of County Auditor Milton Garrigus, who was accused of assaulting them in the columns of a newspaper.

Milwaukee Bank to Resume.

FOR GEN. LILLY'S SEAT.

Democratic Convention at Harrisburg to Nominate a Candidate.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 11.—The democratic state convention, called to nominate a candidate for congressman-at-large to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Gen. Lilly, assembled yesterday. Although the nomination will be but a mere empty honor, there are numerous candidates in the field. Among them are Frank C. Osborne of Pittsburg, the democratic candidate for state treasurer at the November election, but who did not come within 100,000 votes of success; John Merritt, ex-Mayor of Reading; James M. Guffy, who is the leader of the anti-Pattison element in the western part of the state, and W. J. Raymond, the banker, of Middletown. The platform adopted expresses continued confidence in President Cleveland and declares in favor of the policy of the democratic party on the tariff and other issues.

Miners Have a Narrow Escape.

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., Jan. 11.—Late last night fire broke out in the hoisting works of the Idaho-Maryland mine, imprisoning seventy-eight miners 2,000 feet below the surface. Wildest excitement prevailed throughout the town. The miners finally escaped by climbing up a perpendicular air shaft. The long climb of nearly half a mile consumed nearly two hours and the men who reached the surface last were in a thoroughly exhausted condition. The damage to the mine is roughly estimated at $75,000, though it may reach double that figure.

Fire at Richmond, Ind.

RICHMOND, Ind., Jan. 11.—The Starr piano factory was entirely destroyed by fire yesterday. The immense buildings burned like tinder, and all the department worked on the fire without being able to do much toward suppressing it. The loss is $100,000, with an insurance of $30,000. It was a stock concern, with Joseph Lumsdon of St. Louis as president. The works will probably be rebuilt. One hundred men will be rendered idle. The origin of the fire is unknown.

IOWA LEGISLATORS.

The Inaugural Ceremonies to Be Held To-Day.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 11.—The first business in the senate yesterday was the report of the committee on inauguration, which was adopted. The ceremonies will be held to-morrow at 2:30 in the afternoon in the rotunda of the capitol building. Gov. Boies and Gov.-elect Jackson, with military escort, will leave the Savery hotel at 2 o'clock, and upon reaching the capitol will proceed at once to the platform. The ceremonies will be short and simple. The oath of office will be administered by Chief Justice Granger of the Supreme court. Music will be furnished by the Iowa State band.

When the house was called to order yesterday Speaker Stone presented communications in regard to contests. Those filed are: Proot vs. McCann, Lynch vs. Stillmunks, and Stephens vs. Richardson. The two first cases come from Dubuque county two independent democrats holding seats which regular democratic nominees claim. In the last case (Stephens (rep.) contests the seat of Richardson (dem.) from Jackson county. Some republicans wanted the Jackson county contest settled at once, and on motion of Mr. Byers the papers in the case were presented to the house and read.

NO SENSATION YESTERDAY.

The Coughlin Trial Develops Nothing New or of Interest.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—The usual pushing mob fought its way toward the doors of the court yesterday. Although the day's proceedings in the Coughlin trial presented nothing of unusual interest, the public desire to see and hear the scenes and sayings of the celebrated case was as keen as it was on the great days of the trial.

The day's work opened with Stephen Colleran on the stand for cross-examination by the defense. Colleran, in his testimony yesterday, endeavored to show that Burke was in the city after the detectives had claimed to have located him in Winnipeg, but on the examination by Mr. Bottom the witness was made to involve himself in a serious contradiction. He was very much confused in his dates. Frank Scanlan, the next witness introduced, gave testimony showing the intimate relations existing between Martin Burke and Cooney, the "Fox." The cross-examination was unimportant.

It is now asserted that Coughlin will take the stand in his own behalf before the conclusion of the trial.

MERRIAM TO PLEAD GUILTY AT ONCE.

CHICAGO SWINDLER WILL MAKE NO DEFENSE.

A. J. Merriam, who was arrested at the Grand hotel by Patrolman Hogan, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, waived examination and in default of $200 bail will remain in jail until January 17, the date set for his trial. He will probably plead guilty. Merriam swindled a number of Janesville people, taking their orders for clothing, collecting a small portion of the price, and then failing to send forward the order to the Chicago house which he pretended to represent. His old employer A. J. Marcus & Co., is in the city to prosecute the case.

Richard Barry went to jail for sixty days, this morning, for being a common drunk.

LOCAL ADVERTISING IS AN ART. Practical Suggestions Drawn From Long Experience.

There should be no more random advertising. There should be no more complaint on the part of the small merchant that he cannot afford to advertise. Fifteen or twenty years ago business announcements were held almost in contempt, they were "abominably dull and stupid reading, and hung in the columns of the papers until their type faces were all battered and out of shape." At the present time it is regarded as an art.

Advertising is the Breath of Business.

The thing to-day is to advertise. Competition and the spirit of the times render it imperative. It is steam in the boiler of business; it is coal to the furnace. Because you do a small business is no reason you should carry it on secretly as you would a counterfeiting scheme. If your means are limited your business will also be limited. And, if you don't endeavor to make the best use of your business with your means as developing agents, you won't go ahead, nor will you stand still; you will retrograde. The busy tide rushing past you will push you back. But, if you put out your arms and swim the best you can, there is no tide you cannot breast, no current you cannot ford. Brains, skill, energy, knowledge, sobriety, application, courage, all these are needed in business to-day. But if you do not advertise the water will boil out of the pot, the pot will burn through, and your dinner will be in the fire. Add to all the conditions of success "advertising to suit the taste," as they say in cooking. In other words advertise in proportion to the business you are doing, and the means you have to do business with. That is the safe and sagacious gauge to adopt in every business, at all seasons, and under all circumstances. Remember that advertising is the respiratory organ of business, without which collapse is only a matter of sequence.

There are a number of reasons apart from the natural trend, which make newspapers the proper medium for advertising. In the first place an advertisement is news. It is perishable intelligence. It is perishable because it is news, and if it is not news, it is not advertising. Therefore, being news, it belongs to a newspaper. The t amp-dog schemes which waylay and seduce advertisers, are only appeals to that eccentricity the greed for novelty fosters and cultivates. But eccentricity in advertising is no more becoming than eccentricity in personality. Advertising in newspapers, like newspapers themselves, must appeal to the intelligence of the people. Hence paths, ingenuity, surprise, courage, all these may be incorporated in advertisements for they will harmonize with the general picture the newspaper reflects upon the mind, and they will be in accord with the tenor of the news current and meet appetizingly the hunger of the acquisitive mind. Just so far as intelligence permeates an advertisement, just so far will it appeal to intelligent reading and excite interest, for dullness and the commonplace are ruled out of advertisements today by common consent. It is for this reason, therefore that the closest attention is now paid to the style and make up of advertisements.

The newspapers have associated the art, illustrative and typographically, to assist the advertiser. The readers have become educated to a point of critical appreciation of all excellencies of all characters, and the advertisement has attained to a degree of ambition which impels him to put forth his best and most studious endeavors to meet the demand, excel the me, and elevate the standard. That is exactly the position of advertising today.

The newspaper is a steady institution. Its publications are as regular as the clock. Its news columns are like the punctuality of time itself. So should it be with your advertising. There is news of your business, or should be of interest to the people as frequently as the newspaper is issued. Hence, be as systematic in the news you furnish the paper as the paper is in the news it furnishes you and every one else. This is the first point, and simplified, means: Never be out of a single issue of a paper. The second point is, write your advertisement (or have them written) in the best manner possible. Have them newsy. They are to appear in a newspaper, have them in keeping therewith. Let them abound with intelligence, spice and information. Always have something to say in your advertisements. Let the readers learn something about your business when your advertisement has been read. Avoid two things, bitterness and buffoonery. Small talk is insipid in an advertisement, and bitterness just as offensive as sour milk. Put such a tone in your advertisements that they will be in keeping with the tone of the paper, which is always as high as its brains can make it. Good diction, careful and substantial statements are a credit to you; stimulate your competitors to improvement, and you will impel the newspaper to better and more expensive efforts. Put the imprint of individuality upon your advertisements, and by unremitting, conscientious, faithful declarations, be worthy to adorn the columns of the paper which is striving to be worthy of your patronage.

Every advertisement which appears in this paper may be said to be a paying advertisement. There are advertisements that pay more than others. Make your "ads" interesting and they will always be read by every one whether buyers of merchandise or not. In a newspaper experience of several years we have handled hundreds of advertisements. Some of the best written advertisements ever printed in the west came from the pen of Tom Cullen of S. C. Cullen & Co., dry goods, Ottumwa, Iowa. Tom has always adhered to the points made in this article, and being a graduate of Notre Dame University, Notre Dame, Ind., he brings the training received there into good service. It is largely through his efforts in this direction that the dry goods house of S. C. Cullen & Co. has been made one of the most popular in Iowa. It is but a few years ago that Miss S. C. Cullen, the proprietor of this house, was a saleslady behind a counter at three dollars per week. Her judicious use of printers' ink connected with Tom's ability to tell the people what they had to sell, has given her the largest dry goods house in Ottumwa, and one of the largest in Iowa. Good advertising in a first class paper will always bring results.

NEWS ABOUT THE COUNTY.

Porter's Creamery Is Assured.

PORTER, Jan. 10.—The creamery seems to be a nearly decided fact. A large number of cows have been guaranteed. Dances seem to be all the rage lately. There was one at Mr. Dierman's Friday, and another at Mr. Jones' Wednesday night, and all report good times. Miss Hattie Lay commenced attending school in Janesville this week. A pleasant time was enjoyed by all who were present at the dance in Fulton last Friday evening. The club give a masquerade on the 19th. Miss Nellie Cassidy of Evansville, spent last week at her parental home here. A large shade tree was burned in the Eagle school yard recently, on account of ashes in which were live coals being emptied at its base. John Kesly of Burr Oak was a very pleasant visitor here on Sunday. Miss Maggie Earle of Edgerton spent a few days with relatives here recently. Miss Anna Burns of Hardware was a visitor here on Sunday. On Friday January 5, Josiah Sperry, one of our oldest and a highly respected citizen passed away. He was ill only a short time suffering from heart trouble. A wife and seven grown children are left to mourn his loss. Funeral services were held in the Wilder school house Sunday morning, conducted by Rev. McFarlane of Evansville. There are certain persons in the town who it is reported have been stealing oats from their relatives. If it is true, it certainly must be the result of "the hard times."

Ghost Social In Emerald Grove.

EMERALD GROVE, Jan. 10.—A genuine ghost social comes off on Friday evening Jan. 12 in the church parlors. Ladies are asked to bring eatables. A program for entertainment is being prepared. Otto Johnson has just completed a transaction which makes him the owner of a fine roadster and "Decker carriage." "Otto" won't ride alone, you may bet your change on that. The Christian Endeavor society of the Emerald Grove church are planning to give a series of five entertainments to begin soon and hold in the church. Roads are improving and the main roads near town are quite smooth. Some farmers are marketing barley again. Buyers do not seem to be chasing up tobacco growers as in former years. Baldwin of the local lodge, has received programmes of the services in many cities. Some of the addresses are notable for their eloquence and feeling. In most cities the service was public and this will be the case in Janesville next year.

Dr. Brewer Is Coming.

Coldwater [Mich.] Republican. That Dr. Brewer is a thorough and competent physician, is evident from the fact that not only a great number of the citizens of this place, but people of the surrounding country, regularly call upon him for medical advice, every time he visits our city, and all of his patients unite in testifying that they have been greatly benefited by his mode of treatment. It is a well known fact, to the people of this vicinity, that Dr. Brewer has cured many cases that had been pronounced incurable by other physicians—and we would earnestly recommend any of our friends who are suffering with diseases of the lungs, heart, liver or other chronic diseases, to consult him, and feel assured that they will not be imposed upon.

Those out of health in this vicinity can see Dr. Brewer on his next visit, at Park Hotel Saturday and Sunday, January 13 and 14.

TUXEDO IS IN TOWN TONIGHT

Hughy Dougherty's Minstrels at the Myers In a Fun Making Sketch.

Superior in every respect to all previous representations of "Tuxedo" is the general verdict to be heard from those who have witnessed this season's performance of the popular minstrel farce comedy. The chestnuts have been weeded out most thoroughly, and a new lease of life is given to "Tuxedo" by the earnestness of the artists who take part, and a finesse which was lacking before. The songs and specialties are all bran new, and the minstrels with Hughy Dougherty, Burt Shepard, Arthur Rigby and Ed. Marble at the helm, never seem to resort to buffoonery or suggestive innuendoes to draw a laugh from the gallery at the expense of the lady auditors, who have so often been compelled to listen to remarks from the stage that causes the blush of shame to rise to their cheeks. It is all clean cut, refined humor. It is to be regretted that many other so called minstrels and farce comedy companies do not pattern after "Tuxedo" in this respect.

To Whom It May Concern.

Have had diphtheria in our family twice, losing two children the first time and one the last. Two other children, my wife and myself were also seriously ill with the disease when a change in physicians brought to us Springer's Electrical Oil. As an auxiliary to other remedies, it was applied to the throat inside and out. It worked like magic whenever used. We cannot say too much in its praise. We firmly believe that Springer's Electrical Oil alone will cure diphtheria if taken in time and that if we had had it in time our other children would now be with us.

HOW TO CROCHET BOOTS FOR BABY

EASY AND QUICK WAY TO MANUFACTURE FOOTGEAR.

Dainty Slippers Designed for a Lady—The Articles Are Made With the Afghan Stitch a Small Sized Hook and White Germantown Wool After "The Modern Priscilla's Plan."

The material for a baby's crocheted boot to be made after "the modern Priscilla's" plan, as here unfolded, is an ounce of white Germantown wool. Use a medium sized crochet hook. These boots are made in afghan stitch and in a very easy and quick way. Make a chain of 20 stitches, and work on this foundation 22 rows of plain afghan stitch. Twenty-third row—Raise 11 loops, finish off as usual until you come to the last two stitches, which finish together. Twenty-fourth row—Raise 10 loops, draw wool through first two loops, finish rest as usual. Proceed in this manner until thirtieth row, which will have only two loops to raise. From the thirty-first to thirty-ninth row raise in each row one loop more until you have 11 loops. Fortieth row—A single crochet in each loop of last row and in each loop of twenty-second row. Sew the 11 stitches from the fortieth row and the 11 stitches of the first row together.

To complete the boot, work around the top and down the front as follows: First row—Wool over the hook, raise a loop from a stitch on the boot very loosely, draw wool through all loops on hook, two chains. Repeat this in each stitch. Second row—Like first row, but miss the two chain and work in the short-crochet stitches only. Finish with a cord and tassel and pompon.

The slipper for lady, according to the authority quoted, is worked in ribbed crochet with red zephyr worsted. The crochet sole is lined with a piece of cardboard covered with flannel. The edge of the sole in the back and the upper edge of the front are finished with crochet points of white worsted; the corner in the middle is turned down on the outside in a revers and fastened with a bow of red ribbon. Begin the slipper at the toe with a foundation of 34 stitches, and going back and forth on these crochet as follows:

First round—Pass over 1 st, 33 s c on the next 33 st. Second round—One ch, always 1 s c on the back vein of each st in the preceding round, but in the middle st work 3 s c for the widening. Like this last round work 26 rounds more, then overhand the ends of the work together on the wrong side, and likewise the foundation st at the toe of the slipper, so that the seam forms the middle of the sole. Finish the sole in 38 rounds, working back and forth in ribbed crochet stitch on the last and first 10 st of the last round, but at the beginning and end of the fifth, seventh and ninth rounds narrow 1 st each, at the beginning and end of the thirty-fifth and thirty-seventh rounds narrow 2 st each, and at the beginning and end of the twenty-first and twenty-third rounds widen 1 st each.

Border the edge of the sole with a round of s c, and then work the row of points with white zephyr worsted, as follows: First round—On the side which forms the wrong side of the work all loops alternately 1 s c on the next st, 3 chain, pass over 1 stitch; finally, 1 slip on the first s c in this round. Second round—One sl on the next st in the preceding round, * 1 s c on the middle of the next 3 ch, 1 ch, 3 d c on the middle of the next 3 ch, 1 ch, and repeat from *; finally, 1 sl on the first s c in this round.

A Word About Perfumes.

Good Housekeeping says if a scent is required to neutralize what are known as "shop smells," use orris root in preference to anything else. Or, if you like it, bergamot or sandalwood. Deodorized alcohol, with a teaspoonful of scent to a pint, used as a spray, will leave the clothing redolent of neatness.

And for the skin, is there anything more aromatic and agreeable than a handful of lavender water?

E. Nulty of St. Paul, Minn., writes: "Was confined to bed for three weeks, doctors could do me no good; Japarese Pile Cure entirely cured me." Sent by E. O. Smith, pharmacy.

"During the epidemic of la grippe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy took the lead here and was much better liked than other cough medicines." H. M. Bangs, druggist, Chatsworth, Ill. The grip is much the same as a very severe cold, and requires precisely the same treatment. This Remedy is prompt and effective, and will prevent any tendency of the disease toward pneumonia. For sale by Palmer & Stevens, druggists.

THEY HANDLE NITROGLYCERIN.

Excitements and Perils of the Well Shooters' Vocation.

Probably one of the most dangerous vocations in which men are employed in this workaday world is that of "shooting" oil wells with nitroglycerin. The tin shells or tubes into which the explosive is poured at the well are about 5 feet long and 2 inches or more in diameter. The lower end is pointed, and at the top are two bail handles. Filling these long tubes requires a steady hand and firm grasp. A slip or jar would precipitate destruction, and gently, in a steady stream, the oily fluid is poured in. Each shell is lowered to the bottom of the well as fast as filled, and another put down on top of it until the desired quantity is placed, when the "go devil," a five pound iron, 10 inches long or so, is dropped point down upon the mass, and the "shooter" runs for his life. Downward the sharp iron rushes 1,500 or 2,000 feet, and even more quickly is thrown up again with muffled roar and accompanied by an eruption of gas, oil, water, gravel and fragments of rock. Sometimes this comes so quickly that the "shooter" is unable to get beyond reach and is injured, but usually he is at a safe distance.

The men who follow this dangerous vocation have a superstition that the fearless man is perfectly safe in it, but that death follows the individual who manifests any apprehension for himself. Many instances are told which strongly bear out this opinion. Doubtless the secret of it is that the apprehensive man feels nervous and sooner or later is certain to make a slip which will cost him his life. Between four and five years ago a strange accident happened near Findlay, O., that illustrates this. George Struble, an employee of the High Explosive company, was hauling the stuff to the magazines and wells. He had said he would be killed soon and made all the arrangements for his burial, if burial were possible. On his way back from a well to Prairie Depot shortly afterward the strange premonition came true. As with every such case, no one was left to tell how the catastrophe happened. It is supposed some of the glycerin had been left sticking to the cans, and a sudden jar had set it off, but it is one of the incidents of the business that when calamity comes no one can more than guess the manner of its approach. Struble was torn in pieces, and all that was left of the wagon were scattered slivers.

Hairbreadth escapes are of almost daily occurrence, and presence of mind with abundance of nerve is an essential characteristic of the men who daily walk, ride and work with a threat more terrible than the sword of Damocles continually above their heads. One of the most thrilling cases on record is that of a shooter who had begun to lower the first tin into the well, when the rope, instead of continuing taut as it was paid out, suddenly slackened. There could be but one explanation, and that much to be dreaded. The well had suddenly begun to flow again. It would be but a few minutes until six quarts of nitroglycerin would be hurled out of the well. That meant death and destruction. There was no time to escape. Run as he might, there was no time to reach a place of safety. He knew there was but one chance in a hundred of saving himself and the property about the well, and he took it. Planting himself squarely and firmly over the well, he grasped the deadly shell by its handles as it came up almost with the force of a cannon ball. It was a terrible moment of suspense. The force with which the shell was thrown out lifted the stalwart fellow and threw him across the derrick, dislocating his shoulder, but there was no jar, and he was saved.

Near Muncie, Ind., lives William Walters, who follows the hazardous life and has actually had his wife do his work for him when he was not able to attend to it. On one occasion a well was to be shot, and her husband was not on hand to do the job. So Mrs. Walters took his place, lowered 60 quarts—a half barrel—of the deadly explosive into the well, which was 900 feet deep, dropped the "go devil" on top of it and ran as best she could. A muffled roar, a burst of smoke and a shower of flying debris told that the deed was well done, and Mrs. Walters had achieved a record which no other woman can boast of and which rivals in danger many deeds of historic feminine daring.

Odd looking covered wagons are used in transporting the explosive from the factory to the field, and in Ohio the state law compels each one to be marked in large golden letters on the sides: "Nitroglycerin! Dangerous!"

Within this warning cover are compartments padded with heavy felt, into which the square zinc cans that contain the deadly fluid fit as snugly as can be made. A jolt or jar, going miles over roads that are rarely smooth and frequently are very rough, might easily annihilate the whole outfit and spread destruction for a wide distance to surrounding property. No extra risks are taken, but the cans are packed as solidly as possible.

It is said that a savage bull on one occasion attacked a wagon containing empty cans, to which enough nitroglycerin frequently sticks to cause a disaster if handled recklessly. It was in a narrow country road in the woods, and the driver saw no way of getting his team out of the trouble. He leaped to the ground as the bull rushed, head down, upon the rapidly moving vehicle, and escaped. The bull was the most astonished animal in Ohio at the end of the charge, when he suddenly assumed a somewhat dismembered condition.

To the novice no feature of this remarkable occupation is more wonderful and startling than the nonchalant and even reckless manner in which the shooter frequently comes to handle the stuff. Sometimes it approaches criminality in its carelessness. In one instance a young fellow took out 80 quarts of nitroglycerin for a well near Portage. When he reached his destination, he began to fill the shells at the derrick without having unlatched his team or even tied them so they could not get away. The first shell had been filled, and two cans were on the floor of the derrick, when as he was lowering the shell it became detached from the rope and fell to the bottom of the well. The explosion came instantly. Boards fell from the derrick about the cans, but fortunately did not hit them. The horses, startled by the detonation, ran away with the rest of the load. The wagon was upset, but in some most miraculous fashion the deadly explosive ran harmlessly out of the cans, and no lives were lost.

Sorry Because He Was Caught—Congressmen Talk More and Do Less than Women—Little Girl Does the Honors—The Eccentricities Of Blue Blood.

He was selling her dry goods. It was evident that her haughty, distant manner cut him to the quick. "Excuse me, miss," he said, as he stopped in the middle of a measurement of cloth, "but ardn't you the young lady who promised to be a sister to me at Cape May?"

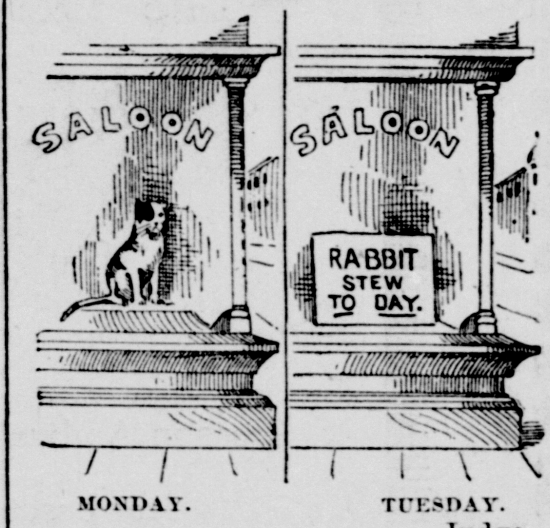

"It may be that I am," she answered freely.

"I wish you would take back that promise."

"Why?"

"Because I'd rather be a total stranger than a relation any day."—Washington Star.

MONDAY. TUESDAY. —Judge.

A Log's Answer. Clergyman (to youthful rustic at last examination before confirmation)—My boy, what is the meaning of the word repentant?

Boy—Please sir, I don't know.

"If I stole a loaf of bread what should I be?"

"Please, sir, locked up."

"Well, but if I was, shouldn't I be sorry afterward?"

"Yes, sir."

"Ah, now you see my meaning. Why should I feel sorry?"

"Please, sir, cos you was ketched."—London Tid-Bits.

Her Sarcasm.

"John," she said, after some silence.

"What is it, my dear?"

"Men say that women talk a great deal, don't they?"

"I believe they do."

"And they also think it proper to make jokes about her alleged difficulty in making up her mind."

"Yes."

"John."

"Well, dear?"

"Are there any women in congress?"

"N-no."

"And yet, just look at it."—Washington Star.

Doing the Honors.

Caller—You are very kind, my little pet.

Little Girl—Walk into the parlor, please, and I'll tell mamma. I guess maybe you'd better stand up till I come back, 'cause I never can remember which of the chairs is made to sit on.—Good News.

Eccentricities of Blue Blood.

Mrs. Highupp—Do you believe it is true that Emperor William is having the milk from his farm at Potsdam retailed in Berlin from wagons with his name painted on them?

A Bad Break.

Miss Pinkerly—I passed by a candy store yesterday, but didn't go in.

Young Tutter—Why, how was that?

Miss Pinkerly—Don't you remember? You were with me!—Truth.

Brace—Pretty nearly. I guess; I haven't paid her a cent in two months.—Puck.

True as Gospel.

He—Yes, if you include her own.—Life.

Polite to a Fault.

Johnny's Mamma—When my little boy went out with Jerry did he remember to be polite and make Jerry go out before him?

Johnny—Yes, ma, sure I did. An' when he wouldn't go out first I turned around and slugged him.—Chicago Record.

He Was Careful.

The Knowing Youth—And here, darling, is the engagement ring I have bought for you!

The Girl—Ah, how sweet!

The Youth—And just write me out a receipt for it, please.—Truth.

The Forum

"The Greatest of all our Periodicals."

The foremost men of the world write the literature of contemporaneous activity for THE FORUM.

This reduction in price at once gave THE FORUM the largest circulation ever reached by a periodical of its class—exceeding all expectations.

To many thoughtful people, the price of The Forum has hitherto been prohibitory. Indeed all the great Reviews have been too high in price for the masses of intelligent readers. But now the number of readers of thoughtful literature—men and women who wish really to know what is going on in the world outside the narrow limits of particular sects and parties—is great enough in the United States to warrant so revolutionary a reduction in price. The Forum discusses important subjects, but it is not dull. The literature of contemporaneous activity is, in fact, the most interesting of all literature. American citizenship implies that a man shall know the opinions of the foremost men and the latest great achievements in every direction of activity.

SIZE AND QUALITY UNCHANGED.

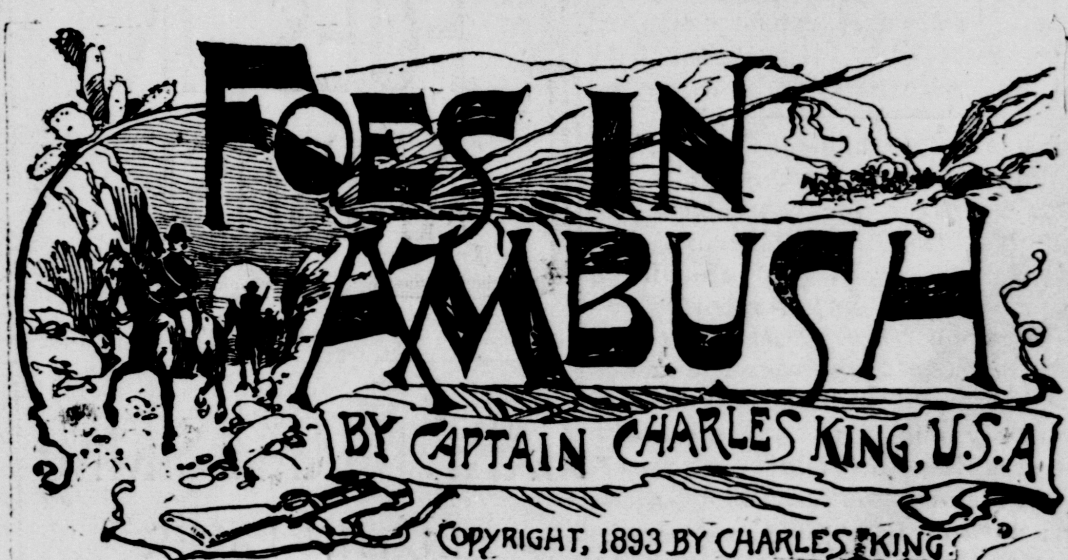

The Forum is now as cheap as the magazines of mere entertainment.

THE CHEAPEST, THE LARGEST, THE BEST, OF THE GREAT REVIEWS.

G. A. R. NOTICE

We take this opportunity of informing our subscribers that the new Commissioner of Pensions has been appointed. He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the administration of pension affairs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U. S. soldiers, sailors, and their heirs, take steps to make application at once, if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filling of their claims in case there should be any future pension legislation. Such legislation is seldom retrospective. Therefore it is of great importance that applications be filed in the department at the earliest possible time.

If U. S. Soldiers, or their widowed children, or parents desire information in regard to pension matters, that should write to the Press Claims Company at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address:

Press Claims Company,

A missionary society at Hebron, Conn., holds thirty-one acres of land under a lease for 9,999 years.

A German couple visited the New York city hall to get married. It was learned that they had lived together as man and wife for twenty-two years, but that they had lost their first marriage certificate and wanted another. They were accommodated.

The story is told on Bishop Barrington, whose handwriting is execrable, that in writing to a correspondent he said: "Out of respect I write to you with my own hand, but to facilitate the reading I send you a copy made by my amanuensis."

There is a point near the famous Stony cave in the Catskill mountains where ice may be found on any day in the year. This locality is locally known as the Notch, and is walled in on all sides by steep mountains, some of which are more than 3,000 feet high.

Samuel Jeffries and wife, each aged 76, reside at Hustonville, Ky. They had no children in the first seven years of their married life, but in the eleven months after that four were born, and in the next fourteen years fifteen were born. There were seven pairs of twins among the nineteen children.

Snake stories are always in season, and this one from Wilkes county, North Carolina is worthy of print: A black snake, looking for dinner, had seized a frog by the hind leg and attempted to swallow it. The frog seized hold of a bamboo brier with its mouth and held on like grim death while the snake tugged at its extremities. The snake wrapped his tail around a convenient shrub to give himself more purchase, and leaned back to his work with a will, but it was no go. The frog held on to the bamboo brier, and, as the snake could not pull him loose, he finally gave it up as a bad job and retired from the field.

A BEAUTIFUL DAWNING.

LIGHT SPRUNG FROM THE DARKNESS.

A Grand Awakening Which Shall Last Forever--A Brighter Outlook Than The World Has Ever Before Known.

Changes are constantly taking place which tend to make the world happier and to cause a feeling of joy and contentment to pervade our lives. One of the greatest blessings which has fallen to mankind and which is indeed the dawning of a new era of life, has just taken place in the well known family of Mrs. Albert Blanchard, residing at 358 Webster Ave., Chicago, Ill. She writes the following interesting letter:

"My health has been very poor for several years. I would have sinking spells and was so weak that I could not hold my hand to my head. I would have to lie down on the sofa and was so very nervous that I could not sleep nights.

"My stomach troubled me all the time and my food distressed me so that I was afraid to eat. I had chills most of the time and sometimes chills and fever with trembling and shaking. I was also troubled with catarrh.

"I was so dizzy at times that I nearly fell; I would grab at the chair, and dark spots appeared before my eyes. I could not begin to tell how I suffered. I was so sick I did not enjoy life and was told that I would not live long.

MRS. ALBERT BLANCHARD.

"I took many remedies and employed several physicians but received no permanent benefit. I was directed to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and after using six bottles I found it had done wonders for me. I now feel real strong and well and can walk a couple of miles.

"My stomach does not trouble me and I am not chilly. My catarrh has entirely disappeared. I am so well that I am assisting my husband in the office and help mother when I go home. I hope any one that is not well will try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"My little daughter, Helena, has also been using this remedy with great benefit. She was very delicate and nervous. After taking this wonderful medicine for a short time she gained three pounds and is not near so nervous as she was. I do not feel afraid to recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy for I know what it has done for me and my little girl and I would advise any one who is suffering to take it."

MISS HELENA BLANCHARD.

What a beautiful awakening, indeed is this great discovery from the darkness of disease and the failures to conquer it. What a blessing to all humanity. How grateful must Mrs. Blanchard feel for the cure of herself and child. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will do for you all that it has done for her. If you are suffering from any form of nervous or blood disease, indigestion, weak stomach, kidney or liver complaints, take this wonderful medicine and it will cure you. Dr. Greene, the noted specialist in the cure of all chronic and nervous diseases, can be consulted at his office, 35 W. 14th Street New York, free, personally or by letter.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands can testify. Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but many, if not most, of the remedies in general use afford but temporary relief. A cure certainly cannot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes. Ely's Cream Balm, which is so highly commended, is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power, with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient. All druggists sell it.

ASHTON HIT STONE SO BURT THINKS.

DETECTIVE MAKES A STIR IN THE COURT ROOM.

Midnight Conference With Mrs. Ashton Was Expected to Bring Out Enough to Prove Her Husband's Guilt—Next Morning Came the Death of Mrs. Stone.

Sensations are coming thick and fast in the Ashton case.

First, ex-Marshall Spangler told how Daniel Stone sent Ashton to him with a request that the case be dropped. To-day Detective Burt testified as to a midnight conference with Mrs. Matthew Ashton. He also repeated a declaration he made to Marshal Spangler that he believed Matthew Ashton to be Daniel Stone's assailant and that another day would bring a confession.

Adelbert Murwin told how Ashton turned pale when told of Detective Burt's trip to Biederman's.

The bribery story created more surprise than anything that has been brought out in the case yet. When

DETECTIVE BURT'S FAVORITE POSITION IN THE WITNESS BOX.

Ex-Marshall Spangler of Edgerton, was sworn no sensational developments were expected by the audience. He told his story in a moderate tone of voice and as he reached the end of his narrative District Attorney Wheeler asked:

"Did you have a conversation with Matthew Ashton before leaving for Chicago?"

"Objected to as leading" said Mr. Hyzer.

Spangler was allowed to proceed and "what was the conversation?" was the district attorney's next question.

"Ashton came to my office" said Spangler "and said that his uncle, Daniel Stone, wanted me to go and see Wheeler and see if the case could not be dropped. He said Stone thought two or three thousand dollars would do it as the district attorney only got from $800 to $1,000 a year and the sum above stated would probably be as much to him as a year's work."

"What did you say?" asked Mr. Wheeler.

"I told him that I could not do anything of the kind as I would be arrested for offering a bribe."

"Was anyone present?"

"Yes, C. L. Brown."

Cross examination followed and Attorney Winans, for the defense, asked Mr. Spangler if Mr. Ashton did not say that Stone was getting old and wanted the case out of the way, and to this Spangler said that something of that kind was said.

On continuing the cross examination Spangler stated that the skin was broken on three fingers of the hand when they got Mrs. Stone's body out. There were no marks on the head or neck that he saw; the clothing was not torn that he knew of; he thought the body was in the cistern half an hour before it was gotten out. While Biederman was in there on the rope he was pulled up to the floor, he saying that he was faint. Then he was let down again. The body was wedged into the opening so tight that it had to be pushed back into the cistern.

Detective Burt's Story.

William H. Burt, the detective, was then sworn. He said that he had been employed by the Allan Pinkerton Detective Agency at Chicago. He received his pay from W. H. Pinkerton, receiving a weekly salary which did not depend upon the work he did, and in case a reward was offered he got no part of it in addition to his salary. He corroborated Spangler's testimony as to how he came to go to the Stone farm, and for what purpose. When he got to Edgerton he looked Spangler up and had a talk with him. The witness received a statement from Spangler as to the facts in the case, and then drove down to Fulton and walked to the Stone place. He was at the Stone farm all the afternoon, and on May 27 he removed to Mrs. Stone's, representing that he was a fisherman. He last saw Mrs. Stone about 9 o'clock Saturday evening. She appeared to be in her usual mental condition. Sunday morning he got up at 5 o'clock and finished his report for Saturday, and at 5:20 o'clock he heard the hired men go down stairs. A few minutes before he had been attracted by a noise and looking up he saw Ashton come along toward the house. It was only a few minutes before the hired men had gone that he heard Ashton coming. When he finished his report and left the room it was about 6 o'clock. He sat writing close to the open window. He did not see Mrs. Stone that morning. It was customary for him to write his report at that time each morning and generally saw Mrs. Stone feeding the chickens as was her custom. Generally she looked up and spoke to him. The witness did not see Ashton again until 11 o'clock and did not see him carrying a pail of swill. It was a few minutes after 6 when he went down stairs. The bottom stair door was closed. Mrs. Preston was out on the porch calling for Mrs. Stone. He then started out and looked for footprints etc., that would indicate where she had gone, but found nothing.

Chicken Dish Not Used.

When he came down stairs he noticed that the fire was nearly out and there were plates upon the table but the table was not set. He saw the hired men go to work and after notifying them of the disappearance he sent Cady to Murwin's. After the boy returned the witness told Cady to go and examine the dishes that the chickens were fed in. Cady did so and brought out a small pan that had contained bran. The bran was dry and the pail had about two quarts of shelled corn in it. Bradley came and Burt got him to take him, (the witness) to Edgerton to notify Marshal Spangler, who got a team and they returned together and began the search. He had seen Ashton when they first got back from Edgerton. He had a conversation with Ashton at the south gate.

"My God, Ashton," I said ain't you going to help to find Mrs. Stone."

"I have searched and my men have but they refuse to search more."

"Are they not working for you?"

"I am willing to do all I can" Ashton said.

"The reason I spoke to him," Burt continued, "was that he had not joined in the search; he had been in the stable."

He told how they searched the cistern for the body and how Biederman asked to be pulled up for air. They had got Mrs. Stone's head and shoulders into the opening when the body seemed to be caught somewhere and the witness got down and reached under her arms to see where the trouble was. Then an ax was secured and the witness knocked out the end of the sink. The hand of the body had caught under a joist. He had to loosen one finger at a time. Then he got her arms above the head and the body came out easily. The rope he explained came up over the back of the shoulder.

Mrs. Stone was nervous and somewhat excited on Saturday morning, he said, and then Mr. Winans began a comparison of the direct testimony and the testimony before the coroners inquest. In this connection Burt was rigidly examined by Mr. Winans but he had an answer for every question and did not lose his presence of mind for an instant. He was still on the stand when the court announced a recess until this morning.

Detective Burt was on the stand when court opened this morning. Attorney Winans took him in hand for cross examination. He got in a question he had tried in vain to introduce the afternoon before. It referred to Mrs. Stone's mental condition on the day before her death. Burt had testified that Mrs. Stone appeared nervous and excitable on the Saturday before her death, but further questions on her mental conditions were ruled out as not proper cross examination. Judge Bennett examined the direct testimony after court adjourned, however, and when court opened Attorney Winans was permitted to continue his line of questioning.

"Did you not notice any condition in Mrs. Stone other than that excitement of which you spoke?"

"No," responded Burt.

"Didn't you say she was a little despondent?"

"I might have said so."

Burt's testimony at the Edgerton inquest was read, one answer being that he should judge Mrs. Stone to be inclined toward hysterics, that some folks might call her "a little off."

Attorney Winans' next line of questioning made the crowd crane their necks expectantly.

"Did you not say to Spangler on Saturday that there would be developments in the Stone case before Monday morning?"

There was sparring between Attorneys Winans and Wheeler, and Burt was finally permitted to answer.

"I did not," he said.

Burt said he knew about the $1,000 reward for the discovery of Daniel Stone's assailant. He saw Spangler Sunday morning, but denied that he said to Spangler:

"The money is yours."

"Did you not say to him: 'Go and get your money?'"

"No, sir, I did not."

"Nothing in substance like that?"

"No, sir."

"Haven't you said that Spangler was entitled to the reward by reason of the death of Mrs. Stone?"

"No, sir."

Burt said he went to his room the night before Mrs. Stone's death about 9 o'clock. He left the house about 10 o'clock and came back to his room at 2:30. He went to bed that morning at 3 o'clock and rose at 5 o'clock. He had notified Mrs. Stone Saturday night that he was to leave the house.

Burt saw Ashton approach the Stone house on the morning of Mrs. Stone's death. It was from five to six minutes after he heard the hired men go down stairs. At first he said it was five minutes but his Edgerton testimony which was read, fixed it at ten to fifteen minutes. Burt didn't remember just where he first saw Ashton that morning. He didn't remember whether it was possible for him, sitting at the window to see Ashton enter the small gate back of the Stone house or not. Attorney Hyzer read testimony where at Edgerton Burt had sworn to seeing Ashton come through the gate and walk toward the house.

The detective testified to coming down stairs and finding Mrs. Preston looking for Mrs. Stone. He suggested that she might be in the hen house. Cady showed him the dishes used for feeding chickens. One was empty and perfectly dry; the other was partly full of shelled corn.

"Did you testify to this in Edgerton?" asked Attorney Winans.

"I believe so."

The witness was given a copy of his Edgerton testimony and asked to locate the passage but failed.

In taking the body from the cistern Burt said he worked in his shirt sleeves. The effort was severe enough to make him perspire. The body seemed fast beneath the floor in some way.

Said Ashton Assaulted Stone.

The state offered to give entire conversation between Mrs. Stone and the detective on the Saturday before her death, but this was pronounced incompetent. The conversation with Marshal Spangler Saturday morning, in which Burt had said significantly that "there would be developments before Monday" was then called for. Burt's response was eagerly awaited.

"I told Spangler I had had a conference with Mrs. Stone and had taken her testimony," said the witness, "also that I was to meet Mrs. Ashton at 11 o'clock in an old house south of Ashton's and would try to 'break her down.'"

"To 'break down' a person was explained as meaning to secure a statement."

"I asked Marshal Spangler to take a position in the loft of the old house," continued Burt. "He said he couldn't as it was Saturday night and he would have to be on duty. I asked why it wouldn't be all right to put William Bradley in the loft as I wanted somebody to hear the statement. I left him after saying that I thought I would get information from Mrs. Ashton that would finish the case. I told him I wanted Bradley to come after me Sunday morning at 8 o'clock and take me to the Commercial Hotel in Edgerton. I wanted Spangler to get Ashton and me in his buggy Monday morning and go to Janesville. I said that on the way we would break Ashton down, as he was the man who assaulted Stone."

There was a rustle throughout the court room.

Night Conference With Mrs. Ashton.

"Where did you go Saturday night when you left your bedroom at 10 o'clock?" asked District Attorney Wheeler.

"I went to the old house and stayed until 11 o'clock when Mrs. Ashton appeared."

Objection was made to any testimony concerning Mrs. Ashton, she being prevented from testifying by the fact that her husband was on trial. The court ruled that nothing of the conversation could be given but Burt might say whom he met.

"How long did you stay and in whose company if in anyone's?"

"I remained about three hours in company with Mrs. Ashton."

James Murwin, an old neighbor of the Stones, was examined as to the search for Mrs. Stone's body. The men searched every room in the house under his direction, he said, and then he and Biederman started for the cellar. They found the door locked, and went back to look for the key.

"Biederman said: 'It is a cheap lock, we will break it,' testified the witness. 'Ashton had just come up and said: 'Don't break the lock, look in the cistern.'"

A search of the cistern was made immediately afterward. Ashton was not present when the search was made. Murwin had a conversation with Ashton later in the day.

"I met Ashton on the road," he said, "and he said to me: 'When I was back east to Uncle Tom's, Oscar Stone took me to the depot. He pointed out a big white house and said the man who lived there, drowned himself in the cistern—no cause known.'"

"We had other conversations. When we sat down at dinner Ashton said that a woman had told him there would be a death in the big house within the week. 'She seems to have made a true statement,' Ashton said. He called in his wife and had her corroborate these facts."

The woman referred to was Mrs. Clendenning, the witness said. She was a carpet weaver, and was supposed to be "a sort of will-o'-the-wisp, a person who sees through mist." Attorney Winans smilingly interpreted this as meaning a clairvoyant.

Says Ashton Turned Pale.

Adelbert Murwin, son of James Murwin, was examined as to Ashton's conduct on the morning of Mrs. Stone's death. Murwin saw Ashton at the barn and talked about Mrs. Stone's disappearance. Ashton asked if the "boarder" meaning Detective Burt, had left the Stone house and Murwin said he thought he had gone to Biederman's and Bradley's.

"Ashton turned pale," said Murwin. "His hands trembled and for a time he had difficulty in speaking. I asked him if he had seen Mrs. Stone that morning. He said:

"Yes, she came out of her house and was scattering corn and meal to the chickens."

"I asked if he spoke to her. He said no."

"Ashton told me," said Murwin after testifying on other points, "that the man who brought up the milk to the Stone house came out of the house while he was drawing water at the Stone well."

After that George Schoolcraft, one of the hired men, came up, and Ashton asked Schoolcraft if when Schoolcraft came out of the Stone house (Ashton) was not drawing water at the well.

"No, you were not pulling water out of the well," said Schoolcraft. "You were carrying that pail of swill from the kitchen."

Ashton said he thought Mrs. Stone couldn't be far away and as Murwin left remarked: "Well now wouldn't it be a great joke if the old jade had skipped out." Witness said Ashton afterward spoke to him the same as to James Murwin about the man in Canada who drowned himself in a cistern. He said: "Cisterns seem to be quite a place for people to drown themselves."

Only Six More Days.

Rosenfeld's offer of $1,000 has made the people of Janesville flock to his store and carry away the plums. This sale is for six more days closing on the night of January 16, not one day more or less. We do as we advertise during the time specified. We agree to give $1,000 deposited in the Rock County National Bank to any person, male or female, who will purchase an overcoat for less money than the ones advertised by us in the Daily Gazette a few days ago. After the 16th we ignore the offer, as we claim we are selling these goods or any overcoat in the house at 20 to 25 per cent less than cost. It looks unreasonable to make these offers and we will admit business would not be profitable to any merchant continuing these offers any length of time, but we wanted to test the people and see if business could not be forced in these hard times, and we are happy to say it has been successful in disposing of our overcoat stock, but a financial loss to us. There are still a few sizes left. Come and carry away gold dollars for fifty cents. Overcoats for $2.50, $3.50, $5 and $7.50, and the finest in the house for $10 and $12. Rosenfeld on the bridge has no old stock to offer, but all new goods, this year's makes at less than cost as advertised. Call and inspect these goods and see if you can relieve Rosenfeld of the $1,000 deposited with the bank and offered to you for that purpose.

THE COUNTY BOARD AND TEXT BOOKS.

SUPERVISORS DISCUSS SUPER-INTENDENT ROSS' REPORT

Committee of Two to Aid the Clerk in Making Purchases of Stationery and Supplies--The List of Poor Who Are Receiving County Aid.

A resolution presented by Supervisor Coon was adopted by the county board today calling for the appointment of a special committee of two supervisors to act with the county clerk in making purchases, contracts for fuel, stationery, printing and general supplies for the county. A resolution presented by Supervisor Vankirk was adopted appointing Supervisors Killam, Barlass and Mayhew together with Superintendents Ross and Throne, to report to the board on the advisability of adopting a series of text books for the public schools.

The board is in doubt as to proper action regarding the uniform text book system.

It was the general belief that the matter of text books as controlled by the combine made the price of school books fully 50 per cent. greater than they should be. This burden falls most heavily upon the poor. Supt. Ross favored the California system, where the state printed all the school books and furnished them to the various districts at cost. The frequent change in text books was also deplored, not only as detrimental to the merchant, but expensive to the parents.

In regard to the publishing of the report of Poormaster S. B. Kenyon, there was quite a discussion. Supervisors Vankirk, of this city, and Coon, of Edgerton, were opposed to making public the names of the unfortunates. One party in Edgerton drew nearly $150. It was finally decided to publish the report.

Superintendent Throne presented his annual report of School District No. 2, and a resolution was adopted providing for the publication of the board proceedings. The matter of the sale of the county farm at Johnstown was left in the hands of the special committee.

Roscy Interviewed

In conversation with Rosenfeld the wide awake and energetic clothier on the bridge, he remarked to a Gazette reporter today. "What a surprise it was to him to see so many leading working and business men coming to his store and purchasing over coats for $10 and $12 each, that he formerly sold for $20 and $25 each. They also went so far as to say to Mr. Rosenfeld that they would allow him to publish their names in the Gazette as testimonials as to his honorable dealings, and they went farther and said that if half the merchants would live up to what they put into the columns of the papers, confidence would be restored and the honorable merchant who is paying one hundred cents on the dollar for his goods could dispose of his stock at the end of the season the same as Rosenfeld is doing, instead of deceiving the public by quoting prices, and when you go to their stores they haven't the goods." In justice to other merchants of our city we decline to publish the names of our purchasers. While we are hard up, the same as other merchants we will offer an additional $500 to any male or female who cannot come to our store and buy goods at the prices quoted in the daily papers of our city. ## BE PATIENT WITH THE LIVING.

Sweet friend, when thou and I art gone,
Beyond earth's weary labor,
When small shall be our need of grace
From comrade or from neighbor;
Passed all the strife, the toil, the care,
And done with all the sighing—
What tender truth shall we have gained,
Alas, by simple dying!

Then lips too chary of the praise
Will tell our merits over,
And eyes too swift our faults to see
Shall no defect discover.
Then hands that would not lift a stone
When stones were thick to cumber
O'er steep hill path will scatter flowers
Above our pillowd slumber.

Sweet friend, perchance both you and I,
Ere love is past forgiving,
Should take the earnest lesson home—
Be patient with the living!
Today's repressed rebuke may save
Our blinding tears tomorrow;
Then, patience, e'en when keenest edge
May whet a nameless sorrow.

'Tis easy to be gentle when
Death silence shames our clamor,
And easy to discern the best
Through memory's mystic glamour;
But wise it were for thee and me,
Ere love is past forgiving,
To take the tender lesson home—
Be patient with the living.

—Exchange.

A BAG OF JEWELS.

"My jewels!"
The exclamation came from beneath the heavy, drooping white mustache of the pasha—the white pasha—General Templeton.

"Yes, general, your jewels! We want to see them!"

The speaker was a lovely girl, quite creole in her dusky beauty. As she spoke she approached the reclining soldier from behind and placed about his swarthy neck a pair of arms like columns of smoked ivory.

The doughty general clasped the wrists with his sunburned hands, and drawing the willowy creature onto his lap as he swung in the hammock replied:

"I am sorry, Verna, but I cannot show them to you. Your mother asked to see them yesterday. They are not here. How did you know I had jewels, child?"

"Oh, we heard so. And the hint was dropped that you came by them in a very romantic way."

The snowy head of the veteran was laid back in the hammock and his piercing eyes were fixed upon the full moon, just rising over the liquid boulevards of Venice. It was a perfect night. The soundless voices of a million lights, telling of the great floating city's grandeur, spoke from all sides, and then answered back as they danced in the rippling waters. Nothing else disturbed the poetic quiet of the night but the occasional splash of a gondolier's sweep and the sweet laughter of this bevy of lovely women who were assembled upon the portico of the Palais du Regina.

"Tell us all about it, won't you, uncle? Come here, girls! Hear General Templeton tell us a story!"

Handsome Verna was always leader. Directly the passengered hammock was surrounded by half a dozen as handsome women as ever an Italian moon shone upon. The scarred veteran thus envied drank in the aroma of animated femininity, smiled admiringly at the several upturned faces and said:

"How much this reminds me of the very night I received the jewels Verna wants to see and hear about! And probably it is in association of ideas that I find a willingness to do what I never did before—relate how they came into my possession. I have an idea, ladies, that when I conclude my narrative you will feel disappointed, but my story has a moral, and if you absorb it, and the point of my experience is not lost upon you, then I will not regret having made you my fair confessor."

"I was in command of the foot forces of his majesty, crossing a corner of the desert. The march was very fatiguing, the outlook dismal, and I must confess, soldier as I was, I felt very much discouraged. To add to my depression I had not heard from my fiancée in some weeks, and I found my mind dwelling more anxiously upon her daily."

"I may indicate the importance of my mission by adding that while I was making all possible haste to relieve Meldon Pasha I had buttoned in my jacket the entire outline of our campaign, which I was to deliver to Meldon in person from the minister of war."

"Night came upon us as we entered a piece of palm forest. We halted and made camp. Late in the evening a soldier came to my tent and informed me a lady desired to speak with me. I was very weary and utterly dejected—really lovesick, I am ashamed to say."

"The grizzled veteran looked down into the fair faces about him as he said this, but they were absorbed in the story and expressed none of that hurt he imagined they would indicate at his last remark."

"Such a thing as a visit from a lady in that remote locality aroused my curiosity, and glad to have a chance to talk with one because she was of the same sex as my absent love I followed the soldier to the very outskirts of the camp, where I found an Arabian horse of peerless majesty, and standing beside him a Moorish girl, who so closely resembled my affianced I uttered a cry of astonishment. This seemed to delight the little woman greatly. They have such naive ways about them and are such clever judges of human nature. She instantly exclaimed:

"'I remind the pasha of some one.'"
"At the same moment she motioned me to dismiss the soldier."

"I did so."

"'I confess, madam,' I said, 'your resemblance to a dear lady friend in England is very pleasing to me.'"

"Then she plied her arts as only the educated Moor can. Never a suggestion, but such languishing sweetness and intoxicating grace and winning artifice; they are indescribable."

"'M. Pasha,' she said in purest French, 'I have come to you upon an errand of mercy, for I bring you deliverance from this life of deprivation. You are a young man, and I bring you the power and the means to return to England, wed your ladylove and live in peace and luxury for the balance of your days. See!"

"She was seated upon the soft sod beneath the high leaved palms, through which the moonlight streamed. In her lap she unfolded a parcel, and as she opened it I beheld the most magnificent amethysts I had ever seen. They were, I should say, a thousand in number, both large and small."

"See!" she repeated. "These are yours, pasha, if you will but give me the papers you have to deliver to the pasha of Meldon—the papers outlining your campaign. You can say you lost them. They will not precipitate any dangers to your forces, and I want them. These gems represent the dowry of a princess. Give me those papers, and the jewels are yours!"

"I cannot attempt a description of the sweet caresses she bestowed upon me, of the ease with which she imitated the woman dearer to me than all else in life, nor of the hurried, reckless review I made of my chances of rise in the army of the sultan, of my long life of drudgery in battle's harness, with the small income it afforded. But these thoughts all went through my mind like a flash, and beside myself with fascination and with the erring ambition to acquire riches I delivered into her willing hand the papers I was to convey to Meldon Pasha and received in exchange the bag of amethysts."

"A moment later the Arabian charger dashed onto the plain, and she was gone."

"No sooner was she out of sight than I realized my blunder and repented it sorely, but I clutched the bag of precious stones and hurried back to my tent. I placed them under my pillow and lay sleeping upon them until morning."

"When it was light, I arose and secured the flap of my tent so the sentry could not peer in, and eagerly opened the bag of amethysts—the price of my honor."

"Imagine my consternation! They were as white as glass and as lusterless!"

"Quickly I called my body servant, who chanced to be a Moor, and showing him the bag of gems watched for his chocolate face to distort with amazement. But he looked at the pebbles and then at me."

"'Well, pasha?' he said solemnly."

"'Well,' I replied, 'are they not gorgeous?' For I believed my sight had failed me or that I had become color blind."

"'Where did the pasha get these?' he inquired, looking as indifferent as a man could."

"'Never mind. What are they worth?' I asked, almost holding my breath in expectancy."

"'Nothing,' was his laconic reply."

"'Nothing!' I exclaimed, rising to chastise him."

"'Nothing, pasha. They are jebels, as we call them, and are collected by our children to use as play money. In the night under a light they take on the color and brilliancy of the amethyst. I can take you over miles of road in Morocco where they are so abundant that in the night you would believe yourself riding over a path of precious gems. Somebody has fooled the great pasha, he concluded, with a grin."

"'Fooled! In 30 minutes I had my outriders in pursuit of a woman on a white Arabian. In an hour I had all my troops moving. By night I had an engagement with the Moors, routed them and took my fair enchantress prisoner. My papers secured, I pushed on and relieved Meldon Pasha. That is the story of my gems.'"

"And what became of the pretty woman, general?" asked Verna.

"She was killed by a sword thrust while trying to escape."

"And what's the moral, general?" asked another.

"Yield not to persuasive temptation and judge of all things by daylight."

"And as the ladies sighed over the episode one toyed with the decorations on the scarlet coat, one dallied with the empty sleeve, another lighted a cigarette for the aged pasha and all listened to the plaintive song of the gondoliers, as the mellow moon—the maker of gems from jebels—rose higher and higher into the studded belfry of the night.—Exchange.

His First Letter.

A writer in The Christian Union gave an amusing account of the first letter ever written to a wife by a certain old gentleman. The couple had never been separated in all the years of their married life until pa, at the age of 70, concluded to visit some relatives in Boston.

When he was preparing to start on his memorable trip, his wife, who was to remain at home, said: "Pa, you never write me a letter in your life, and I do hope when you get safely there you'll write me a line and let me know how you bore the journey. I'll buy a sheet of paper and put in a wafer, so you won't have no trouble about that."

Pa was absent a week, and faithful to his promise he sent a letter. It read thus:

RESPECTED LADY—I got here safe, and I am very well, and I hope you are the same. I shall be glad to get home, for the pride of the air that I see here is enough to ruin the nation. The women folks are too lazy to set up in their carriages. They loll back and look as if they were going to sleep, and I don't pose one of 'em could milk a cow or feed a pig. Nebew Abiah has a proper dairy of horses, and I have rid all over Boston. There wa'n't no need o' puttin them boughten buttons on my coat, for no body noticed 'em. I am

YOUR RESPECTED HUSBAND.

Royal Pensioners.

Mr. Labouchere finds a good deal of popular support in his opposition to a further grant of $50,000 a year to the Duke of Saxe-Coburg (the Duke of Edinburgh) now that he has become a German prince. The government has yielded to the request of the royal family on the ground that the duke finds his German estate so incumbered that he is still in absolute need of an allowance from the British treasury. There will probably be a lively debate when the matter comes again before parliament.—London Cable.

WORKBASKET TABLE.

A Convenience That Is as Serviceable as It Is Pretty.

A unique workbasket, which can be readily transformed into a table, and originally on exhibition at the Decorative Art rooms in New York, has recently been described for The Household. It is

THE WORKBASKET EXPOSED.

Made from a common camp stool, from which the canvas for the seat has been removed.

Into the opening thus formed was shired a capacious bag or pocket, wires being stretched across the two open ends for holding the frame in place and serving as a foundation for the shirrings of the pocket—the materials being figured india silk in dull old rose shades, with a lining of old rose satin.

The wooden framework is painted white with enamel paint, and a square board, painted in the same way, with gilt lines for decoration, is made to set over the pocket, resting on the framework, thus making a table of it and hiding from sight the work in the pocket.

It makes a handsome piece of furniture for a lady's use and is as serviceable as it is pretty. Quick witted women need hardly be told that this convenient affair may be made less delicate and therefore better adapted for the wear and tear of the ordinary sitting room by making the pocket of darker colored material and painting or staining the wooden framework a cherry or mahogany hue. Indeed, ingenious women will doubtless add to and improve upon this model, which is suggestive of a variety of styles made on the same principle.

One Way to Dry Wet Shoes.

When, without overshoots, you have been caught in a heavy rainstorm, perhaps you have known already what to do with your best kid boots, which have been thoroughly wet through, and which, if left to dry in the ordinary way, will be stiff, brittle and unlovely. If not, you will be glad to learn what I heard recently from one whose experience is of value, writes a correspondent of Harper's Bazar.

First wipe off gently with a soft cloth all surface water and mud; then, while still wet, rub well with kerosene oil, using for the purpose the furred side of cotton flannel. Set them aside till partially dry, when a second treatment with oil is advisable. They may then be deposited in a conveniently warm place, where they will dry gradually and thoroughly. Before applying French kid dressing, give them a final rubbing with the flannel, still slightly dampened with kerosene, and your boots will be soft and flexible as new kid and be very little affected by their bath in the rain.

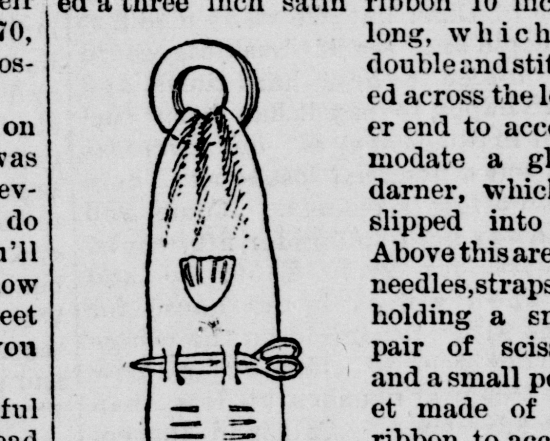

In following these directions it need hardly be added that, kerosene being inflammable, one wants to keep away from the fire while treating the shoes with it.

New Materials for Mourning.

There are many new materials that can be used for mourning, such as bright reversible satin, with satin on one side and a cord on the other. All the large patterned moires are useful, especially when trimmed with jet, and the soufflet mohairs, which are woven to resemble bubbles, stand up in bold relief. Some of the fine reps have been brought out in a new guise. But mourning, to be in good taste, cannot be too simple and devoid of ornament. Heavy crapes, which are expensive, are frequently tortured into all kinds of shapes of platings and ruchings, which are decidedly in bad taste.

A New Glove Mender.

With this season's fancy goods is shown a new arrangement for mending gloves. As described in The Household, it is made with two rings instead of one, as formerly. Through one of these is passed a three inch satin ribbon 10 inches long, which is double and stitched across the lower end to accommodate a glove darning, which is slipped into it. Above this are the needles, straps for holding a small pair of scissors and a small pocket made of the ribbon to accommodate a thimble. The other ring is sewed to the end of the ribbon, and upon it are knotted skeins of mending cotton in different shades, which may be purchased at any of the furnishing counters. The principal advantage over the other arrangement, which has been seen for several years, is that there are no ribbons dangling to be caught with each other, and the broad ribbon for the needles is convenient for keeping needles threaded with the cotton from which only a little may have been used, and which is therefore threaded in readiness for further repairing.

TAKEN FROM LIFE.

The "lady life insurance agent" is becoming one of the features of business life in London.

A pot containing $2,600 in gold and silver has been found on Dr. Bailey's farm near Lancaster, Pa.

General court martial orders No. 114 brings the important intelligence that Private H. D. Card has been turned down and compelled to forfeit $5 of his pay to the United States for remarking "this hash is not fit to eat," or words to that effect.

James McGuire, a farmer of Scott township, Lawrence county, Pa., heard a noise in his hen coop, and locked the door while he went two miles for a constable. An hour later, when the door was opened, Mrs. McGuire was found lying on the floor. She had fainted and was benumbed with the cold.

While a Chicago minister, Rev. H. H. Barbour, was preaching on the doom of Sodom and Gomorrah, he repeated in his exordium the words of the text: "Escape for thy life. Look not behind thee," etc. Just then a tall, patriarchal-looking man arose and with unintentional but all the same powerfully dramatic effort pointed to the ceiling, which was one mass of flame. The alarm thus given turned into a panic, and in half a minute the church was cleared.

One of the best of "applause" stories is related of a singer who was exceedingly self-conscious—not to say intolerably conceited—who, at a concert at which she was to vocalize, handed the German gentleman who was accompanying her at the piano-forte a copy of her song marked in several places, "Wait for the applause." At the end of one verse there came a dead silence among the audience. The accompanist laid not a finger on a key, but blinked placidly through his spectacles at the lady. "What are you waiting for, she asked, in an exasperated undertone. "I am waiting for the applause," replied the pianist, "and he nod gom yet."

FADS AND FANCIES.

In old Rome a law was passed forbidding men to debase themselves by wearing silk, which was considered fit only for women.

Secretary Jarug, of the Korean legation at Washington, has a practical way of learning the English language, which he is earnestly trying to master. He studies each day the things he has to handle in the affairs of the household.

A recent craze in Paris has been for frames, dainty boxes, card cases and the like, made of white or pale pink kid, painted with a sprinkling of flowers copied from old Dresden china. This is a suggestion for using the upper part of long white kid gloves.

A dog's tailor flourishes in Paris. This tailor is a woman, and in her reception rooms Prince Bow-wow has rugs, water bowls and biscuit jars to refresh him during the trying on processes. #### A FASCINATING STORY.

Diverted the Attention of a Burglar on Business Bent.

"I think that about as curious an experience as I ever had," said a retired burglar to a New York Sun reporter. "I had in a town in western Pennsylvania. I had got into a fine, big house there without much trouble, and had found things when I got inside about as I expected to find them. There was some silver in the dining room, and I nipped a few little things that I could get into my overcoat pocket handily, but I had other things in mind, and I went on into the next room, which turned out to be a library. As I threw my light around his room I saw on a table in the center a magazine open and lying face downward."

"I picked up this magazine and turned my bullseye on it and saw that it was open at the beginning of a story. The title caught my eye, and I stood there for a moment, with the magazine in one hand and the bullseye in the other, and read a few lines. It seemed to be a mightily interesting story. Whoever had been reading the magazine had sat in a big leather chair, which still remained alongside the table. I sat down in this big chair, stood the bullseye on the table at my elbow, where a light would strike the pages, and began to read and became so interested that I forgot that I was there on business. "I don't know how long I had been reading—maybe 20 minutes or so—when I felt a hand on my right shoulder. I looked up and saw standing alongside of me a tall man in a dressing gown. He had a lamp in his right hand. He had touched me with his left, and that hand still remained on my shoulder. He looked down upon me calmly. I confess that so far as I was concerned I was surprised, and when he asked me what I was doing there I was at first really too flabbergasted to reply, but I finally told him I was reading a story in a magazine. He asked me what story I was reading, and I told him. I thought I just the faintest flicker of a smile on his face at that, but I couldn't be certain about it.

"WHAT DO YOU THINK OF IT?"

"What do you think of it?" says he. "I had come back to myself by this time, and I told him I thought he ought to be able to see what I thought of it himself; and I was interested in it enough to let him come down and find me there reading, but that I wouldn't undertake to say that I thought about it absolutely until I finished reading it."

"Well," says the man, "don't let me interrupt you. Go ahead and finish it." He was looking perfectly calm and cool, as he had been when I first looked up at him. He set his lamp down on the table by the bullseye, and pulled up a big chair to sit on the other side, and got another chair to put his feet on. He had only slippers on, and I suppose he thought his feet would be cold on the floor. He sat down in the big chair, put his feet upon the other and pulled his dressing gown up around his legs, making himself quite comfortable. Then he picked up a book off the table and went to reading, while he waited for me to finish the story. When I had finished it, the man said:

"Well, what do you think of it now?"

"And I told him—and that's what I did think about it—that I thought it was immense."

"The man laid down his book and got up on his feet again. He picked up his lamp and stood there for a moment holding it and looking at me. He said nothing, but it was perfectly clear to me that he was about to politely bow me out of the house."

I laid down the magazine, and picked up my bullseye, and moved toward the door just as I might have done if I had been a guest. The tall man opened the door and calmly bowed me out. As I went down the steps I heard him bolting the door after me.

"You know I wondered who he could be, but when I came to find out I wondered that I hadn't thought of it myself before. He was the man that wrote the story."

KNOWN WHERE TO FIND MONEY.

Four Men Rob a Chicago Gambling House of $5,000.

Only a few weeks ago a party of Chicago poker players were held up at the table and robbed of $400, and now a similar but more important exploit is reported. The gambling house at 14 Quincy street was invaded, the four attendants held up and robbed of $5,000, and the thieves escaped without leaving a clue. All visitors had left for the night, and the cashiers and dealers were figuring up the receipts at the faro and roulette tables. On each table lay a considerable pile of money. The big packages were just being put into the safe by Sam Dahl. The porter stood guard at the heavily barred doors. Suddenly four men came into the passageway at the foot of the stairs. One of them pressed the electric button, and the porter raised the slide and looked out. The spokesman of the gang demanded admittance, but as the hour was late for play the lookout was suspicious. Then the spokesman declared that he wanted to see a man upstairs whose name he gave. Without argument the porter unlocked the door, and the four men filed up stairs to the gambling room.

The entrance of the four men did not at first create excitement. They made no attack until they had "sized up" the room. Then the last man who came in closed the door and stood with his back to it. His companions drew their revolvers and ordered "hands up."

One man approached Dahl at the safe, and covering him with a revolver pulled the money out and stuffed it into his pockets. The same man then scooped the coin off the tables. Two of the other robbers were gradually forcing Dahl and his companions back and into a side room, which they locked. Then the robbers left by the front door.

It took the employees 10 minutes to get out of their temporary prison, and then they gave the alarm. But the thieves had a good start and got away safely.

Beggars swarm so in Malta that the only way to avoid being pestered by them is to put out your hand and anticipate them with their own whining, "Give me something." "Me plenty poor man," "Me very large family."

SUCCESSES GREAT AND SMALL.

Referring to the Georgia farmer's hog and pig weighing respectively 800 and 300 pounds, Mr. W. F. Erb of Highlands, Ky., writes that he has a porker which weighs 800 pounds, also a pig fifteen months old which weighs 400.

A dog's bone has again been used in a New York hospital in repairing the broken leg of a man. The patient in this case was over sixty years old. The operation was performed over three weeks ago, and success seems assured.

The largest gasometer in the world is at East Greenwich, England. When full it contains 12,000,000 cubic feet of gas. It weighs 2,220 tons, is 180 feet high, 300 feet in diameter, requires 1,200 tons of coal to fill it with gas and cost $300,000.

The respiration apparatus invented by Professor Voit, of Germany, has been received by the Yale college medical school. Its purpose is to measure the oxygen absorbed by the body and the carbonic acid and water given off. From the data thus obtained, the decomposition of the body can be determined, and the decomposition caused by the digestion of the various kinds of food compared. It is hoped that the experiments will result in the selection of diets that will prolong the lives of those suffering from consumption and other diseases.

The famous leaning tower of Pisa is a campanile or bell tower. The building, which is cylindrical in form, is 197 feet high and fifty feet in diameter, made entirely of white marble. It is called the leaning tower from the fact that it inclines some thirty feet from the perpendicular, and it is not generally known that this inclination, which gives the tower such a remarkable appearance, was not intentional. At the time it was about half done the error in measurement was perceived. It was guarded against by the use of extra braces in the further construction of the building, and an adaptation of the stone in the highest portion. There are seven bells on the top of the tower, the largest of which weighs 12,000 pounds, and these are so placed as to counteract, as far as possible, the leaning of the tower itself.

EVAPORATED cherries, apricots, peaches, raspberries, apples, &c., finest line in the city, and cheap. Fred Vankirk.

THE World's Fair is to be brought to us. "Tuxedo" presents it in minstrel form with Hughey Dougherty at the helm.

"JERSEY Lily," the queen of all patent flowers, one dollar per sack; a liberal reduction made on larger lots. Fred Vankirk.

FOR the next ten days we will sell fifty, sixty, and seventy cent tea for forty cents. Stanton & Son, 21 North Main street.

THE Woman's Mission Circle of the Baptist church will meet at No. 202 North High Street on Friday January 12 at 3 p. m.

ANY of the three attractions on the People's course for next Tuesday night would prove a drawing card alone, as each is an artist of the highest degree in their several lines.

HAVE a number of large size plush garments that are included in the half price cloak sale and with which you get a muff free. ARCHIE REID.

MANY will remember Mrs. Clara Murray, harpist, who comes next Tuesday night on the lecture course, as the same who played in the Thomas concerts at the fair this last summer.

ARE showing quite a few underwear bargains and especially in broken lines, odd sizes, etc. They may be just what you want.

ARCHIE REID.

OVERCOATS, ulsters and fur caps can be bought for less than wholesale cost, and all other goods in the store at cost during the balance of this week at Wiesend's Boston Clothing House.

THE Boston Clothing House will be open on Saturday from 7 o'clock in the morning until midnight, in order to accommodate all customers during the cost sale. But not open on Sundays.

THE Leiderkranz society will meet for practice at Concordia hall this evening. A full attendance is desired as arrangements will be made for the masquerade to be held in about three weeks.

CHARLES D. EVANS, the one man orchestra, will give a unique entertainment at All Souls church tomorrow night. Mrs. J. B. Day will assist and the entertainment will be well worth enjoying.

CLERK W. F. WILLIAMS, of the municipal court, was taken seriously ill this morning soon after reaching the court room, and was compelled to return home. He is suffering from a severe cold and grip.

DON'T forget the musical entertainment at All Souls church tomorrow night. Prof. C. D. Evans assisted by Mrs. J. B. Day and other talent will give one of the best entertainments of the season.

S. D. GRUBB is in the market buying a new stock of clothing, hats, caps and furnishing goods which he will open up in the building corner West Milwaukee and Jackson streets on or about February 1st.

MRS. H. M. WALDO slipped on the smooth hard wood floor in the Park Hotel pastry room and fell, striking her right hip against the hearth of the range. No bones were broken, but she was badly bruised and unable to raise her right arm.

LEVI MUNGER, father of A. C. Munger, of this city, died at his home in Palmyra Monday, January 8, aged seventy-four years. His death was the result of paralysis, this being the first illness he had ever suffered. Mr. Munger was one of the earliest settlers, coming to Wisconsin in 1838.

LLOYD & SON have the finest stock of boots and shoes in the city, in the room formerly occupied by Burns & Boland, in the Phoebe block, opposite the post office. These boots and shoes are all the finest makes and can be bought for actual cost for the next thirty days to introduce them. Don't delay.

ALL those who have not yet paid their accounts at the Boston Clothing House are requested to pay at the store to J. Wiesend or his clerks, as they are the only persons authorized to collect. All accounts must be settled for before February 1, as on the last day of this month the business will be closed. J. Wiesend, Proprietor Boston Clothing House.

CONSIDERABLE extra expense has been incurred by the Lecture Course management in securing Mrs. Mary Scott-Siddons for next Tuesday night but it has been a good move on their part as when a really fine attraction comes here Janesville people are not slow to appreciate it and we predict that "standing room only" will be hung out early on the night of the entertainment.

ALL those who buy anything in the line of clothing or furnishing goods during this month can save from twenty-five to thirty-five per cent by buying from Wiesend, at the Boston Clothing House, corner Milwaukee and Jackson streets, during his cost sale, as when he advertises a cost sale, it means what the goods cost him.

A Notable Change on the Course.

The next attraction on the People's Lecture Course comes next Tuesday evening, Jan. 16, and the talent for it has been changed. Mrs. Mary Scott-Siddons having been put on instead of the Arion Lady Quartette. The talent now stands Mrs. Scott-Siddons, reader; Mrs. Clara Murray, harpist; and Chas. D'Almaine, violinist. A stronger combination it would be hard to find. It was by mere accident that the management were able to book Mrs. Siddons, she having that night only between engagements at St. Paul and Chicago, and they are to be congratulated in doing so, as an attraction like this is seldom had outside of the large cities. The name of Mary Scott-Siddons is so familiar to all, and her reputation on both sides of the water is such that it is needless for us to praise her, but we will simply say if you are intending to go to the entertainment next Tuesday, go early or you may listen to it from outside.

HISTORICAL LIES NAILED.

Pocahontas did not save the life of John Smith.

The African king, Prester John, never had an existence.

There never was such a person as Pope Joan, the so-called female pontiff.

There is no historic authority for the statement that little George Washington cut down the cherry tree.

The "Man in the Iron Mask" did not wear a mask of iron. It was black velvet, secured by steel springs.

William Tell did not found the Swiss confederation, and the story of Gessler has no historic basis.

Cesar did not say, "Et tu, Brute." Eye-witnesses to the assassination deposed that "he died fighting, but silent like a wolf."

Wellington at Waterloo did not say: "Up guards, and at 'em!" The words were put into his mouth by an imaginative writer.

Richard III. was not a hunchback, but a soldier of fine form, some pretensions to good looks, and great personal strength and courage.

Cesar did not cross the Rubicon. It lay on the opposite side of the Italian peninsula from the point where he left his own possessions and entered Italy.

The story of King Arthur and his round table is a myth, although what purports to be the round table is still to be seen in a South of England town.

Alfred the Great did not visit the Danish camp disguised as a minstrel. There is no good reason to believe that he could either play the harp or speak Danish.

Columbus did not make an egg stand on end to confuse his opponents. The feat was performed by Brunelleschi, the architect, to silence critics who asked him how he was going to support the dome of the cathedral of Florence.

The pass of Thermopylae was defended, not by 300, but at least 7,000 Greeks, or, according to some writers, 12,000. The 300 were the Spartan contingent, who showed no more bravery on that occasion than their companions in arms from other Greek states.

A man supposed to have escaped from an asylum for insane is at large in the woods near Bremen, Ind. He is armed with a club and has successfully resisted all attempts to capture him.

SETTLE ON THEIR LANDS.

Many Successful "Flers" at Ashland Building on Their Claims.

ASHLAND, Wis., Jan. 11.—A careful estimate of the number of acres in the Omaha lands for which application has been made by the "rushers" up to the closing time of the land office yesterday shows that a total of 44,000 acres has been covered, or seventy square miles. Settlers are leaving to look up the lands to take formal possession and erect temporary dwellings. The Omaha lands are all situated in the Ashland district so that it is impossible for the "rushers" to make application at the Duluth land office. Among the flers yesterday were a large number of women. The register has been forced to refuse to even recognize the application of a great many of them because of their marriage vows, which took away all their homestead rights.

Peixoto Still in Power.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 11.—The report published in Paris that President Peixoto has resigned is untrue. He is still in office and is devising plans to meet the rebels and stamp out the rebellion.

Shooting Off Your Mouth

Should be "Shooting" with care or some reporter will catch the shot and quote you thus:

FREE TRADE WOULD BE ALL RIGHT
Alderman Carrington Is Anxious to Have the Tariff Question Settled.

"There is no need of people crying hard times," said Alderman Carrington this morning. "This country is bound to prosper, whether it is free trade or protection. If congress would do either one thing or the other the country would be all right. If it is free trade laboring men will get down to a wage system of thirty cents a day, and so economize their living expenses that they will save one third of this amount, and the country will prosper. Manufactured articles are about exhausted, and the supply being short manufacturing must be resumed on some self-sustaining basis."

However this is a fair report of what Mr. C. did say but he didn't say it for "print."

What we do believe and what any thinking man or woman must believe is that the country is so rich, so vast, so grand in its resources that no political upheaval, let them upheave as they may, can cripple us for any great length of time. We believe in a protective tariff. Most sensible people do; some people don't and they are an honest some, and a sensible some too; but we believe beyond everything else in our country, UNDER ALL conditions. If the powers that be will settle on some policy be it TARIFF or FREE we will (as a people) pull ourselves together and work on the basis that the "powers" elect and we shall win. No policy of government, or those that make laws, can cripple the country FOR LONG. We are not politicians we ARE real state dealers. We have some bargains in our line. Come in talk BUSINESS, let politics alone.

Yours very truly,

GEO. L. & SARAH H. CARRINGTON.
